Training Workshop on
Developing Talents of Women in Science, Technology and Innovation
(STI)

18 – 21 July 2016

Kuala Lumpur,
MALAYSIA

INTRODUCTION

In 2011, International Science, Technology and Innovation Centre for South-South Cooperation under the auspices of UNESCO (ISTIC) in collaboration with Ministry of Women, Family and Community Development, Ministry of Science, Technology and Innovation (MOSTI) and the NAM Institute for the Empowerment of Women (NIEW) co-organised the International Forum on Women in Science and Technology in Muslim Countries which brought together 234 participants from OIC member countries and 33 international and local speakers – all experts in science and technology. The forum emphasised the importance of:

- Having enabling political, social and economic environment by governments to promote women's participation in science and technology field;
- Providing broad based science education and literacy level, including in science and technology; and
- Recognising the role of women in science and technology.

Subsequent to that ISTIC and NIEW held a High-Level International Roundtable in 2012 to discuss on how strategies towards meeting a higher percentage of women at the decision making level. This time around issues identified were that:

- Few women are leaders at scientific institutions and large technology companies;
- Contribution of women scientists to society is not taken seriously.

The Roundtable further recommended the creation of a larger pool of women leadership at middle leadership level.

This is the second training workshop to be organized by ISTIC. The first one was successfully carried out from 3rd to 6th August 2015 organised by ISTIC and NIEW. A total of 35 international and local participants from 12 countries attended the first training workshop. From this number, a total of 17 participants were from developing countries and NAM member countries.

RATIONALE

Although enabling environment such as gender sensitive policies and legislation is crucial it is equally important to develop the capacities of female scientists to advance their career in their organisation. It is therefore essential that women in science and technology be given the appropriate knowledge, skills and attitudes to equip them with the requisites that can promote them to be in positions of influence within the organisations. This is vital particularly for those who have the qualifications, talents and potential to become leaders and later be members of the boardroom.

OBJECTIVES

- To engage participants on developing their own strength talents;
- To enhance participants' knowledge, skills and attitudes regarding the environment of the workplace; and
- To enhance participant's self-belief in their talents.

OUTCOMES

Participants will gain knowledge on critical success factors in leadership development which will enable them to move up in the ladder of leadership positions.

PARTICIPANTS

About 40 Women scientists/ technologists comprising middle level management in science and technology organisations from developing countries and Malaysia. The combination of participants from developing countries and Malaysia will allow for the exchange of knowledge, ideas and experiences as well as opportunities for discussions, networking and possible collaboration.

ORGANISER

International Science, Technology and Innovation Centre (ISTIC) for South-South Cooperation under the auspices of UNESCO

The International Science, Technology and Innovation Centre (ISTIC) for South-South Cooperation under the auspices of UNESCO was established on 21 January 2008 and is based in Kuala Lumpur. The creation of the ISTIC is a follow up of the Doha Plan of Action which has been adopted by the Heads of States and Government of the Group of 77 and China, during the meeting in Doha, Qatar, from 12 to 16 June 2005 on the occasion of the Second South-South Summit of the Group of 77 (G77). ISTIC is fully funded by the Government of Malaysia. One of the main functions of ISTIC is to develop and implement science, technology and innovation development programme for members of G77 and China targeted at facilitating the integration of national science, technology and innovation policies, capacity building, exchange of experiences and best practices, and creating a problem-solving network of centres of excellence in developing countries.
